Some Heartfelt Mother's Day Poems

You were there before I knew your name,
Before I walked, before I came,
Into a world so wide and new,
It felt much smaller thanks to you.
You held my hand, you helped me grow,
You taught me more than you may know,
And even now, through all the years,
You're still the one who calms my fears.

A mother's love is soft and strong, A quiet place where we belong.
It lifts us up, it pulls us through, And shines in everything you do.
I see your love in who I am, In every step, in every plan,
And on this day, I hope you see, How much you truly mean to me.

You gave your time, you gave your care,
You showed your love was always there.
In sleepless nights and busy days,
You guided me in countless ways.
And though I may not always say,
The words I'm thinking every day,
I hope you know, both loud and clear,
You're loved not just today – but all year.

*The world feels softer when you're near, your voice alone can calm my fear.
You've built a life with love so wide, There's always room right by your side.
And though I've grown and found my way, There's still so much I want to say,
Thank you for all you've helped me be, And for believing in me.*
